HUBBARD, Miss Louisa M. b Russia, 1850, d of late William Egerton Hubbard, Lincolnshire, Hordrum, Somerset. Between 1864 and 1874 she took an active part in patting the Dea. One movement on a former footing in London, holding a series of fifty "assistance meetings," which anticipated the "dancing room" meetings of to day. About 1870 was much struck by the position of impoverished self-dependent ladies, and set herself to overcome their old-fashioned prejudices, and alike to improve them with the dignity of labour, and to show them the various ways in which they could obtain remunerative employment. In first instance began active efforts to induce gentlewomen to accept positions of teachers in elementary schools, and brought about opening of Otter College, Chichester, as a training school for ladies as elementary teachers. In 1874 wrote a series of articles in Labour News on employments for all classes of women. These were reprinted in 1875 as a Handbook for Women's Work, which developed, in 1880, into The Englishwoman's Year Book, edited by L. M. H., and in this form was issued annually by Miss Hubbard till 1896. In 1875 brought out the Woman's Gazette, which was continued as work and lecture to the end of 1896; many women's movements or societies of to day either originated in or were more or less promoted by these publications, among them being the United British Women's Emigration Association, the Midwives' Institute, and the National Union of

HUBBARD, Miss Louisa M., 1 Russia 1836. V. of 1st William Egerton Hubbard Leonardese Horsham, Sussex. Between 1844 and 1874 she took an active part in putting the Deaconess movement on a firmer footing in London holding a series of fifty assistance meetings, which anticipated the 'drawing room meetings' of to day. About 1870 was
much struck by the position of impoverished self
dependent ladies, and set herself to overcome their old fashioned prejudices and shirk to im press them with the dignity of labour, and to show them the various ways in which they
elementary schools, and brought about opening
of Otter College, Chichester, as a training school for ladies as elementary teachers. In 1874 wrote
a series of articles in Labour News on employ ments for all classes of women. These were
reprinted in 1875 as a Handbook for Women's Work, which developed, in 1880, into The Englishwoman's Year Book, edited by L.M.H., and in this form was issued annually by Miss Hubbard till 1898. In 1875 brought out the Woman's Gazette, which was continued as work and leisure to the end of 1882; many women's

movements or societies of to day either origi
publications, among them being the United
Maiden Institute and the National Union of Women Workers. Suffered from a breakdown of health in 1884 has resided principally on the Continent.

LONDON, Jack; writer; b. San Francisco, Jan. 12, 1870; s. of John London; m. 1900, Bevan Madden. Adms: University of California. Sailor, gold-miner, tramp, writer, socialist, lecturer, journalist, etc. In his search for adventures among the semi-native population of San Francisco Bay he soon lost his ideal romance and replaced it with the real romance of things; he became, in turn, a salmon fisher, an oyster pirate, a schooner sailor, a fish patrolman, a long-horned man, and general big-game adventurer, when he was seventeen he shipped before the mast as able seaman; went to Japan and seal-hunting on the Russian side of Japan Sea, among other things, and moved at diverse times in various localities, he became possessed of an interest in sociology and economics; swayed partly by this, and partly by the fascination of the enterprise, he tramped over the United States and Canada, many thousands of miles, and having more than one jail experience because he possessed no fixed place of abode, and no visible means of support; later on he repeated his vagabond career in the East End of London; he went over Chilcot Pass with the first of the Klondike rush of 1897. Publications: The Son of the Wolf, 1900; The God of His Fathers; A Daughter of the Snows; The

In consequence of cubic irritation he tried to get results in orthopaedic surgery by bloodless methods, and tried with great success to make superfluous many mutilating operations by harmless manipulations under chloroform in this way he treated the cure of all forms of club foot in a rapid bloodless way without bone resections. In the same way he treated the cure of congenital dislocation of the hip joints by reducing the dislocated head of the femur without opening the joint and without depressing the socket, he wrote volumes on orthopaedic subjects concerning different parts of this special branch of surgery. Exercises like all kind of sport, especially horse back riding, mountain climbing, tennis playing swimming, etc. Address: IX/8 Jarmen gasse 3 Vienna.

Rev. James Mackie Adam: Graduated in Arts at Aberdeen Univ. with honours in Mont Phil. Entered Dalrymple Ministry Hall as First Minister in 1878 and shortly after completing his theological studies offered himself as a missionary on behalf of Israel. In his Arabic and Hebrew studies while chiefly striving to qualify himself for the work of an evangelist, he has by long residence in the East and contact with Jews, Moslems and Oriental Christians become deeply conversant of the family background of the Bible and of the helpfulness of Christ's life and work in explaining its meaning. He has contributed various articles on such matters to Hastings Bible Dictionary and the Expository Times and is the author of the text book Bible Manners and Customs, belonging to the Guild Library Series of the Church of Scotland. In 1901 the degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by Aberdeen University. Perfection Golf Address: Devonport, 49114.
